Determined To Understand Each Other's Problems

ATTLEE ISSUE TRUMAN COMMUNIQUE FIRST

Washington, Dec. 4. President Harry Truman and Prime Minister Clement Attlee, after an emergency face-to-face conference, announced tonight their "determination" to understand each other's problems in meeting the fast darkening world crisis. The American and British leaders reported this much progress in a "frank discussion" at the White House lasting one hour and 85 minutes. They reviewed "the general world situation in the light of developments in the Far East" where over 23,000 square miles of shead of the free world in conflict which UN forces had virtually settled, despatching massive armies

where they have no right to be, and displaying supreme arrogance when their delegates appeared before the Security Council. On this record Communist China now demands she be-admitted to the United Nations as a full member. One can hardly say that her credentials entitle her to be regarded as a peace-loving, willingly cooperative member of a world organisation established to preserve the security and welfare of sovereign states. On this point the United Nations are entitled to some assurances, and the best one would be a gesture from

Peking to the effect that if the 88th

parallel were re-established, the Chinese

Communists would immediately withdraw all forces out of North Korea and would share with other members of the United Nations in the work of unifying and stabilising Korea as a single country under a genuinely popular government, Such a promise would entitle

Communist China to admission into

UN, where, in due course, the subject of the future of Formosa could be dealt with in the proper manner. It is doubtful whether UN, at this moment, is empowered to give any positive promises about Formosa's future; certainly Sir Benegal Rau is in no position to do so. But the subject is open for discussion under acceptable circumstances and the door to mediation in the Korea problem need not be closed because of this single issue. Encouragement is given to the hope that Sir Benegal Rau may yet be successful in his efforts, by the announcement he is to have further talks with Mr Wu Hslu-chuan. Perhaps at the next meeting the Peking delegate

will indicate what contribution his

FIRST MASTERLY BATSMANSHIP HUTTON

Despite a masterly innings of 63 not out by Len Hutton in England's second innings at Brisbane today, Australia dismissed the visitors for 122 and won the first Test match by 70 runs.

Hutton scored all his runs this morning out of a total of 92 added for the last four England wickets. His batsmanship was superb.

England's last hope of forcing a victory on a still badly affected wicket went when Denis Compton lost his wicket before scoring. Everything this morning, from England's point of view, rested on Hutton and Compton, and once they had been separated the end of England's last innings was only a question of time.

The wicket looked lighter in colour after the heavy rolling this morning, and much of the previous day's dampness had got.e, when Hutton and Evans resumed England's batting this morning. It was, however, still a bowler's wicket, responding well to spin, though the ball was not lifting as sharply as yesterday, and played comparatively slower and easier.

Left-handed Johnston opened the bowling to Evans, who got the bowler's third ball squarely to fine leg for the first four of the morning, to bring England's overnight score to 34 runs for six wickets. Iverson was entrusted with the ball at the other end and gave away a single to Hutton. A leg byo was the only run in Johnston's next

Relief Scheme For Refugees

A registration of the victims of last night's inre which destroyed hundreds of squatters' huts along Taipo Road was put into effect this morning to prepare a scheme of relief, for

The registration scheme was started by the Shamshiupo Kai Fong - a civilian organised district welfare association -and, through their appeal, members of the many similar associations in Kowloon, the Kowloon Chinese Chamber of Commerce and other charitable organisations are rallying to contribute their part for the relief of the victims. So far it is difficult to estimate accurately the number of persons rendered homeless, but It is believed there are thousands, including many children. No food kitchens have yet been organised, but the victims got their first meal this morning through the kindness of the Garden Bakery in Kowloon, which contributed 600 lbs of broad and five large sacks of biscuits. However, not meals are expected to be distributed as soon as the registration scheme has been completed.

Attlee o d FIST Conference

WASHINGTON

Washington, Dec. 4. The arrival in Washington today of Mr Clement Attlee, the British Prime Minister, for top-level discussions coincided with reports of continued retreats of General Douglas Mac-Arthur's forces in Korea and widespread talk here of General MacArthur being obliged to evacuate Korea and confine the United Nations mission there to air and naval action.

Some American quarters consider that the deteriorating military situation may stiffen rather than decrease United States resistance to any proposals which Mr Attlee may have brought with him for a settlement with the Chinese Communist regime.

If this American view is sustained after the historic conference opening today, it will be for President Truman and Mr Attlee to decide, as President Roosevelt and Mr Winston Churchill decided in 1941, on a global strategy for the struggle for survival of the free world in the next 12 months.

Mr Attlee is expected to make | the murky sky as the Prime the following points:

(4) That the rearmament efforts of Europe and the United States should be co-ordinated to prevent competition between the United States and European countries for the raw materials required.—Reuter.

Nations forces were in retreat in Korea. It was believed the two men would take a general review of the world situation, particularly of the Korean crisis, at their first meeting. The President and Mr Attlee will meet again at luncheon tomorrow.

Mr Attice has strong support from his government to take all possible measures to avoid a large-scale war with Communist China. He may suggest a possible Big Four meeting with Russia, and also is expected to express his government's view that the atomic bomb should not be used in the Korean war. Mr BLENNERHASSETT

Blennerhassett, a prosand highly respected member of the Stock Exchange, was the object of hilarious attention from some of his ussociates in the House. He lost his temper—and the results were most unfortu-

The trouble arose out of a game, popular with small children, known as Yo-Yo. It was not a very remarkable or particularly skilful game, and consisted in manipulating a spherical object, which was allowed to unwind itself on a piece of string, and then, by giving the piece of string an appropriate jerk at the appropriate time, causing it to wind itself up

The owners of this somewhat elementary pastime were minded to increase its popularity by advertisement, and instructed a Mr McNulty to prepare the most humorous form of advertisement possible.

Now McNulty had a small daughter who was accustomed to play a game of her own. She would enter her father's bedroom, acting as a valet, and bearing a variety of clothing.

She would then ask: Mr Blennerhassett have his trousers?" If her father said: "Yes," the game proceeded, and inquiries were made about other articles of attire.

If he said: "No," the pastime came to an abrupt conclusion. The young lady had never heard of any Mr Blennerhassett, except perhaps by readhad apparently selected it at random.

Mr McNulty, faced with the problem of inventing some individual as a suitable medium for the advertisement of Yo-Yo, seized on the mythical Mr Blennerhassett, and decided to write a story depicting the decline and fall of a Yo-Yo devotee.

He illustrated it with hution in the Evening Standard in which a gentleman, bearing 'he name of Blennerhassett, of Throgmorton Street, was shown as a prosperous City man before being introduced to the game, and then, after a course of practice unduly prolonged ending up with straw in his hair as the inmate of a lunatic

The Club, thanks to Minto's splendid conversions, continued on their winning way in the Pentangular Rugby Tournament by defeating the Army by 6 points to 3 whilst the Police surprisingly went down at the hands of the Airmen, who served up their best display to date. The Club seconds were fortunate to hold an energetic 27 HAA fifteen to a pointless draw.

Spectators got plenty to enthuse over in the premier match, which culminated in as close and exciting a finish as has ever been witnessed in a local rugger encounter.

With so much dependant on the outcome, the players strove desperately until "no side" put an end to a blazing club forward rush initiated by Carrel.

Danger!

A T the Hotel Mount Pleasant And Excelsior there happened to be a real American. The manager warned Mr Chadstone just in time. The librarian assumed a sad and taciturn manner, and said as little as possible. "I'm from Noo York," said the American, "Wichita, Neb," said to wanna talk." That got rid of views of the opposition! the American, but for the remainder of his hours on duty Mr Chadstone had to keep up the role of a bereaved son. He ran into the American again in the bar, "I'm kinda deaf, too," in a dodgarn quarry." At this point, the hand was hopeless. Joe could take two spades, one heart, two diamonds and two clubs. He was therefore set two tricks.

As North had indicated, Joe should have made his contract by proper handling of the apades. Do you see how? Docide for yourself before you read on.

Joe should have won the first trick with the acc of spades! Then dummy's remaining spades would have provided a sure entry for the clubs. Declarer could begin the clubs at the second trick, forcing out West's ace. With two low spades in the South hand, it would be easy to get to dummy with either the queen or jack of that suit. Declarer would therefore make five clubs, two diamonds, two spades, and possibly a heart.

London, Dec. 4. The American action in ordering strict control on shipments of all goods for Communist China, Hongkong and Macao was not unexpected here.

The Americans have for some time been concerned over the possibility of raw materials shipped to Hongkong and Macao eventually finding their way into Communist hands.

One means by which European exporters have been evading the export controls on strategic materials has been to ship them to American ports and then altering their destination to Chinese ports en route.

The Americans have now plugged this hole by applying controls to all chipments of commodities from strategic countries passing through American ports on the way to Russia, her satellite

Tried Gyppe New Arrivals

Prison For Three Extortionists

Two Chiu Chow coolies, Law Keung and Cheung Suiwan, were sentenced to k three months and recommended for banishment by Mr d'Almada at Kowloon this morning for extorting "entrance fees" from four new arrivals from northern China.

According to Inspector Braun four Chinese arrived by train at the KCR terminus last Friday and the two defendants with other coolies, asked them where they had come from. On being told they were from the nor-thern provinces, they declared that they would have to pay $5 each, as they were from a foreign place.

As the new arrivals possessed only Chinese People's currency, they offered the defendants 30,oco Jenminpiao, but this was refused. The four northerners then boarded rickshas intending to call at a friend's place in Hunghom, First defendant caught hold of the sloeve of one of them to pull him out of the ricksha and renewed his demand for $5, The man eventually decided to take the bus to Hunghom and defendants agreed to pay the bus fare as they had local currency. When the party got to Wuhu Street they had an argument and the four northerners called in their friend who offered the coolie $10, but this was again refused.

A constable, on hearing the commotion, took all parties to the station.

First defendant told the Magistrate that the four strangers agreed to pay them $20 for them to show the way to an address in Hunghom.

And He Won His Case!

A small shaven head appeared over the witness stand in the Supreme Court this morning. Cheung Har, aged 14, plaintiff in the case of Cheung Har v. Lee Cheuk Kee, had arrived to lodge his complaint with Mr Justice Scholes. A year ago, Cheung told the Judge, he had paid $150 to the firm of Lee Chenk Kee so that he might learn the skilled art of french polishing. The term of apprenticeship,

It had been agreed, was to last three years. One day during last autumn Cheung arrived at the polishing shop in Yaumati and was told his services were no longer required. "Alright," said Cheung, "but what about my $150?" They couldn't agree on that point so diminuitive Cheung took the case to Court-to the Supreme Court. And there Mr Scholes, protector of hard-done-by apprentices, ordered the polishing firm to pay Cheung his $150and $4.30 costs.

would impose heavy sentences on persons convicted of larceny or attempted larceny from the person, Mr d'Almada at Kowloon this morning sent down Ng Chuen for 12 months and ordered him to be put under Police supervision for two years after the expiration of his prison term.

According to Inspector Orem, Ng attempted to remove a wallet from Chan Ching-yu as he was alighting from the train at KCR station on Sunday. Ng was caught by Chan's friend who saw the attempt being made.

Inspector Orem said that defendant had a conviction for a similar offence in 1948 when his claim of being Hongkong born was accepted.
